SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - A stocky, blond 16-year-old high school student has survived a 236foot fall from the Golden Gate Bridge into San Francisco Bay. Tom Tawzer of nearby Livermore, Calif., was reported recovering today at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco from a broken collarbone and three or four broken ribs. The Coast Guard said Tawzer was treading water when they pulled alongside him to make the rescue Monday.

He is only the second person known to survive a fall from the span. Bridge authorities list 278 known deaths from suicide leaps. The bridge is open to motor vehicles and pedestrians.

Witnesses told police Tawzer climbed to the top of a bridge rail and went feet first into the bay. The Coast Guard rescue boat reached him eight minutes after he hit the water.

"I was walking on the bridge," the boy was quoted. "The next thing I remember I was in the OTTAWA - The pivotal ele-ment in John Deutsch's monumentally important study of Canada's economic future is his calculation that we somehow must create a million and a half new jobs in the next seven years.

Burch Will Resign

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) Republican national chairman Dean Burch announced today

That doesn't mean that Deutsch has become a sort of economic watchdog, ready to pounce on every minister's slightest indiscretion. It does will be maintained between the government and the eco-nomic council, so that ministers who want to place politics ahead of economics in the formulation of their policies, may hesitate long enough to change their minds. It also means that an agency outside the mainstream of daily governmental pressures will be viewing the progress of the economy. It was partly the abseace of such a mediating device between Donald Flem ing's loose fiscal measures and James Coyne's tight monetary attitude, which held back the economy in the late fifties.

Deutsch's personality and background fit him ideally for his seven-year appointment as the economic council's chairman. Although he spent two decades as one of. Ottawa's civil servants, he has worked in every section of the country and has a deep ap-preciation of the many elements that make up the Canadian economy.

Born on a homestead near Quinton, Sask., he was an assistant director of research for the precedent-setting Ro-well-Sirois commission and has WINNIPEG (CP) - A children's hospital doctor here said Monday three children were brought in during a single week in an overwrought state after watching the television horror show, Outer Limits.

SINGAPORE (AP) Britain's biggest fleet is protecting Malaysia against the threat of any Indonesian attack.

The aircraft, carrier Eagle, Britain's most formidable war-ship, arrived Monday to join the Far East fleet of more than 70 ships. It includes the carrier Victorious, the commando ship Bulwark, guided missile de stroyers and frigates.

Defence preparations were being rushed ashore. The current goal is about 9,000 troops in North Borneo, where Indonesia shares a 900-mile jungle border with Malaysia. The troops are to include 500 hardfighting Ne-palese Gurkhas being flown Hong Kong, beginning Wednesday.

Helicopters are to shuttle half the Gurkha battalion to the border as soon as it arrives in Borneo. The rest will move up by truck and on foot.

A Bigger City Council

and expanding responsibilities of city government are indicated clearly in Mayor Wilson's inaugural address suggestion that the City Council be enlarged.

Specifically if Victoria is to take part in the administration of joint services-along the lines proposed by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell-more aldermen will be required. Existing duties in the city are heavy enough for the mayor and the present eight council members. The assumption of new obligations would overtax their energies

If Victoria and the other municipalities are to proceed further with the joint services policy, each council must be prepared to devote continuing serious study and hard thought to the details of such an arrangement.

Two references in the mayor's inaugural address underscore that point. Greater Victoria is already involved in joint services in some fields. Library service is one. Yet the mayor notes that "a solution is urgently required" to the problem of meeting library needs in the community in such a way that adequate representation is provided for those who enjoy the service. "I hope," he adds, "that during 1965, through discussions with our neighbors we may be able to find an acceptable solution."

Again, in the operation of the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health, Mayor Wilson notes that since its inception "a number of inherent problems have

THE REVIVED IMPORTANCE developed which were not at first anticipated. These include the diverse area of the board's jurisdiction, the integration of its two administrative units, the apportionment of operating costs, membership and voting privileges and the expansion of the program into the fields of rehabilitation and home

As in the case of the library, the health board problems can be largely met when its members reach a satisfactory agreement on the apportionment of costs.

In like manner, as the prospective members of the joint services board proceed from approval in THE Great Society, as President Lynprinciple of the plan to the actualities of carrying it out, the development of an equitable financing formula will become imperative.

That will be a time-consuming operation demanding a high degree of ability, understanding and cooperation on the part of representatives concerned.

This no doubt was in the mayor's mind as he discussed additional members for the city council.

Certainly his review of last year's activities indicated a 12 months that left himself and the aldermen with little spare time. His indication of work to be done this year promised no extra leisure for those in public office.

A city which decided years ago that it had too many aldermen is now demanding so much service from those who serve that more are required in the council circle. To do the job that should be done additions will have to be made.

NEW CHAPTER IN GOVERNMENT

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Ingredients of the Benign Revolution

don Johnson is using the words, is much more than a mere collection of necessary or desirable programs mak-ing life more livable in the United States. It is an attempt to open a new chapter in the annals of popular government.

Compressed into one sentence, the basic idea is that an affluent society like the American can be Lippmann Let us what this means. An affluent society is not simply a rich society: it is one which has mastered the new art of controlling and stimulating its own economic growth.

To be sure, we are as yet only stu-dents and apprentices in the art. We have not yet fully mastered it. But we have a sufficiently promising start to justify our thinking that we have seen a breakthrough—that we are escaping from the immemorial human predicament of the haves and the have-nots. This predicament has been based on the assumption that the size of the pie to be divided is fixed and that, therefore, if some have more, others must take less.

Old Concept

The assumption that this predicament exists has been the central idea of social-ism and communism. However, it has riso been the tacit assumption of recent reformist and welfare programs. We can see this in slogans like "the New Deal" and "the Fair Deal." Both imply that there is always the same pack to be

the years between the two world wars. But only recently, not until President John Kennedy's proposal of a tax cut as part of a planned deficit, have the modern economists in the government service and in the great financial institutions been taken quite seriously

I will not say that they have moved into the driver's seat. But certainly they are in the seat next to the driver's, reading the signs and following the maps for him. The result of this change is a benign revolution which makes it pos-sible that the costs of improving schools and colleges, of reducing poverty, of re-building slums can be covered by calculated increases in the national output

Practical

I realize that there are some who will dismiss all this as dangerous moonshine. I can remember a time when we stood on the sidewalk and jeered at passing automobiles, telling the driver to get a horse. But now the practical evidence of what can be done is coming in, and it is accepted increasingly by the business community and by organized

This is the concrete foundation of the special and unusual Johnson political style. If a modern society like ours need no longer think of itself as irreconcilably divided over the distribution of wealth it has become humanly possible to govern by obtaining wide agreement among the voters. It is a fortunate coincidence that Lyndon Johnson happens to be a man who has long prac-tised the art of healing conflicts. But he would not be able to make this skill the governing philosophy of an administration if the evolution of a modern economic society did not give him the op-that the great internal problems cannot be solved successfully and satisfactorily until and unless they have the support of a very big majority.

In the American political tradition, a very big majority is taken to lie between 60% and 75%. That is what is required to amend the Constitution and to ratify treaties. An American consensus is more than a bare 51% majority; it is a majority betweeen three-fifths and three

Lyndon Johnson was elected by such a consensus, and his intention is to conserve the consensus if he can. It is not only that; as everyone else he likes to be liked. It is because he has realized from his large practical experience that our really difficult and important in-ternal problems cannot be solved in any

Obsolete

The American race problem is the outstanding example. Unless there is a wide and growing willingness to observe civil rights laws, enforcement alone will be a long and bloody battle. The same principle applies to relations between capital and labor; only because the Marxist idea of class struggle has been rendered obsolete in a modern economy is it possible and therefore necessary to make agreements which are mutually beneficial.

The Johnson conception of the Great Society rests on the two pillars of con-trolled affluence and of political consensus. If the conception were to fail, it would not be because the conception is false. It would be because of some external cause—possibly because we had become diverted by some entanglement

Replacing Home

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Logically and practically it should be just the other way around. In the de-prived neighborhood the home cannot do its customary job because of the physical conditions of life and the emerging social patterns of "The Other America." Hence, the school in such neighborhoods must go quite far to re-place the home; and for this very reason, schools in deprived neighbor hoods must be much better staffed and equipped than the average.

Such schools, in sum, need extra help because they have a bigger job to do. The job is not purely educational. It is social. It is the job of giving hope to the hopeless by opening doors of escape from "The Other America." And the president is dead right to want to give hese schools the extra help they need.

Oak Bay Assessment

One of the great benefits we enjoy are the newspapers with vigilant editors who are watchful of encroachment by and peaceful possession as exemplified bureaucracy on the right of ownership under the editorial page of the Times, January 7, headed Forcing Owners Out?

I have in mind a property on the waterfront in Oak Bay, and there are others in similar circumstances. This small house has been in possession of the owners for 40 years, now retired and in the fixed income group, fully intending to spend their remaining years there.

The assessor has increased the value of this lot by over three times his 1960 valuation. How this increase was arrived at has not been explained, as there has been no sale of property for residence in the 2300 and 2400 block in that time.

It does not make sense for the reeve to claim he is powerless to alter this condition, for it should not be beyond his low municipal practise in taking the matter up with the Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs to recommend a change in the Equalization Assessment Act to the Cabinet to avoid injury that was unfortunate at time of drafting.

I believe a commonsense attitude towards this assessment is to tax a wealthy purchaser on the value he paid a waterfront lot, and not penalize all adjoining owners for another's act. C. B. ATKINS.

Refreshing

It was most refreshing to read the statement by Mr. Justice Hall on the subject of medicare and his condemnation of the attitude adopted by the medical profession to the contents of the Hall Report.

I was particularly impressed by the following passages of his statement:
(1) "No one can seriously suggest that any one method of receiving payments is sacrosanct or that it has any therapeutic value. In fact there is good reason to believe that eliminating the financial element at time of receiving service does have a salutary effect on patient and on the doctor-patient relationship...

(2) "The notion held by some that the physician has an absolute right to fix his fees as he sees fit unrelated to the mores of our times is incorrect.." "The state automatically becomes involved whenever it grants a monopoly to an exclusive group to render an in-dispensable service. "This involvement exists now. It is not something new proposed by us."

I would also remind your readers that Mr. Justice Hall is a member of the Supreme Court of Canada and not some starry-eyed socialist.

Daring Nonsense

So your art critic, January 9, thinks I'm a coward because I do not hang on my walls the meaningless daubs he has the audacity to dismity as art. Fellow critics have loudly praised daubs by monkeys, by artists exhibiting the result of merely wiping their brushes, and by little children.

the paper where Gre Victoria and Vancouver municipalities are to make an all-out appeal against students' bus fares, also that Mayor R. B. Wilson said the committee is concerned over the increased cost

While I fully agree with this statement, I note no mention was made of the hardship to pensioners re the increased fares. I have talked to many people who are now walking instead of riding the buses and they tell me that they will have to curtail their activities cause they cannot afford to pay this increase in fares and they are not to make trips to the city unless about lutely necessary. So although the B.C. Hydro has increased fares it seems that it is going to lose revenue. I know of an elderly and very lame lady who travels two blocks to go to church; if she pays cash it's 40 cents return.

In the urban and rural ghettoes and slums, therefore, a kind of outcast society has developed. Harrington called it "The Other America" for good reason because it is quite different from normal American society. And this outcast society is being perpetuated—it is even being made quasi-hereditary — because the children of this "Other America" are not being equipped, either by experience or by education, to escape from their outcast condition into the normal current of American life.

Go into the middle-class-to-prosperous urban meighborhood, the voices of whose people are heard at city hall. You will find one of the best schools in the city. their laboratory animals. Simple richness of experience has now been proven to be the great promoter of menta growth. Early deprivation has been shown to be the gravest sort of handicap.

All these rather recent discoveries must be borne in mind if one is to under-stand the chief peculiarity of the kind of school aid the president wants to give. Its chief peculiarity is that it is discriminatory. If the plan works as intended, the $800 million of federal aid will only go to schools in deprived neighborhoods. None will be given to schools in neighborhoods in the lowermiddle-to-prosperous range.

There may be arguments about the technical devices adopted to achieve this kind of discrimination, such as making federal payments to a school district proportional to the number of really lowne inhabitants-those with less than $2,000 a year per family—as revealed by the census. But there should be no argument about the basic principle of dis-crimination in favor of schools in the ghettoes and the slums.

As has been pointed out before in this space, the prevailing American rule that all schools are equal is the sheerest nonsense by any practical test. To make matters worse, this rule is generally applied in such a way that some schools are more equal than others.

REPORTING

OTTAWA - Had Lord Alington's daughter not married Lieutenant Commander Marten, there might not have been anyone in Crichel Down with enough resolution to stand up to the Agricultural Land Commissioners when the came to do so.

And in that event the extraordinary chain circumstances that now involves the Canadian government and Prime Minister Pearson might never have occurred.

It all started in 1937 when 725 acres of farmland at Crichel Down in Dorset were con-demned to the Crown for use as an RAF bombing range-of which 328 acres were owned by His Lordship. In 1949 the range was de clared surplus to defence requirements, was transferred to the Agricultural Land Commission for use or disposition.

A number of Crichel Down farmers, ineluding Comdr. Marten as steward of his wife's estate—Lord Alington having died—requested, and was promised, that the land would be put up for tender on a rental basis. Then, despite this undertaking, the commission decided to have the land farmed as a unit.

* Comdr. Martin was more than annoyed; he was downright angry. He protested to MPs. He wrote the minister. He got up a petition. He went to London to see the minister—and the upshot was a public inquiry that vindicated Marten in his position, and strongly criticized the arbitrary, underhanded and irresponsible actions of a good many bureaucrats.

This expose of the Land Commission left such a smell that a year later the Eden government decided it might be prudent to take a good hard look at the ways that all of its administrative tribunals were carrying out their responsibilities. It appointed a committee of 16 headed by Sir Oliver Franks to make

The committee's report in 1957 made many recommendations, but none more important than that dealing with appeal. For the protection of the subject's right to redress arbitrary and unjust rulings by tribunals that were laws unto themselves, the committee urged establishment of an overall appallate tribunal, from which a further appeal would lie to the courts on points of law.

This hits home in Ottawa, where MPs and others have long criticized an identical lack of appeal from Canadian tribunals to any higher thority save the minister.

Then the Glassco royal commission on go ernment organization, appointed in 1960 by the Diefenbaker government, looked into the operations of our administrative tribunals like the Tax Appeal Board, the Board of Transport Commissioners, the Tariff Board and the Immigration Appeal Board.

Probing with full knowledge of the Crichel Down and Franks inquiries, the commissioners recommended that the government launch a full-blown inquiry into our quasi-judicial organs

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Walter Alvarez

Women write sometimes to say that one ankle is swollen. Others write to say that both ankles are swollen. They wonder why. When both ankles are swollen, the person may have some impairment of the action of the heart or of the kidneys, or she may have been born with something wrong with the veins or the lymph channels in both legs When only one leg or ankle is swollen, the chances are that the trouble is localized in the veins or the lymph channels of that one leg or thigh.

The lymph channels are tiny tubes which carry a milky fluid called lymph. It bathes and nourishes the cells throughout the body. These channels can be defective - perhaps These channels can be defective—pernaps from birth—in one leg or both legs. When they are very defective, the woman can have enormous legs and ankles. I can remember beautiful girls with one normal leg and one leg three or four times as big, because of lymphedema.

Operations have been devised for remov-Ing the swollen tissue which lies between the skin and the muscles, but these operations have never been entirely satisfactory, and surgeons have told me they hate to perform them. I have known cases in which the wound made was so large that the patient suffered much shock, and as a result, nearly died. A common name for lymphedema when it is severe is elephantiasis.

There is a form of elephantiasis which affects many of the natives of certain islands in the South Seas, but this is due to the obstruction of the lymph channels by hun dreds of tiny worms. These are transmitted from person to person by the bite of a mosquito. Fortunately, we don't have that form of the disease in North America.

Naturally, if a woman gets stout, her legs become even larger than they would be with only what we call lymphedema.

Sometimes the swelling or part of it, is due to a plugging up of one of the big veins of the thigh. There are many women who when they have a child get what is called a "milk leg" - an inflammation of the veins. Also, stout women can get a plugging up of the vein after an operation, especially on

Today there are many women who are helped by wearing elastic supportive stockings. It helps greatly at night to put a chair cushion under the lower end of the mattress so as to raise the feet higher than the head. Usually then by morning the leg is back to size. Naturally, people with varicose veins who have to stand most of the day are most likely to have serious trouble with their big In some cases, the veins should be operated on. The important point is that a woman whose trouble is lymphedema is not likely to be helped by an operation on her veins, especially if they are normal, and only the Premier John Robarts of Ontario and Quebec Provincial Secretary Bona Arsenault, a Liberal, joined in praise of Macdonald as the true father of his country whose memory needs strengthening in today's trials.

Professor Donald Creighton of Toronto University, author of a two-volume work on Macdonald, wound up the marathon speechmaking near midnight with an assertion that only Macdonald's strength of will and optimism carried Confederation through its trials nearly 100 years ago.

PRESERVE THEIR SPIRIT So long as the spirit of Mac-onald and his Quebec lieutenant, Sir George Etienne Car-tier, is preserved, Quebec will not secede, Mr. Arsenault said. Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

There was an argument in the House of Commons recently about which sport should be Canada's national game—hockey or lacrosse. Couriers have not been able to get through the snow with reports on the final decision, but that may be only incidental. Ottawa debates have been known to consume up to 100 years on less vital matters.

At the time of the great harangue, hockey voices were heard loud and clear.

DOUG FLETCHER

Punch Imlach, the geriatic general of the Toronto Maple Leafs, observed that he couldn't walk the streets of Charlottetown, P.E.L., or Victoria, Canada, without being asked for his autograph or about Frank Mahallaviteh's Other hockey lovers scoffed

The safari was a 50th anniversary present for the Fletchers. It also enabled Sir Douglas to keep a promise he made to his bride at Leicester, Eng., more than 50 years ago.

"I told her," he recalls, "that I would take her back home in three or four years. As it happened, I got a little busy and, well, we finally made it."

Blimey Crosse As Old As Gracie

Besides making Leicester, the Fletchers also hit London, Stratford-on-Avon, Edinburgh, South Wales, Brussels, Cologne, Heidelburg, Innsbruck, Venice, Rome, Florence, Paris, Versailles, and Monte Carlo.

While in England, Fletcher naturally inquired into the health of the "grand old game of lacrosse." The patient, he discovered, was fine.

Lacrosse is not England's national game but it arrived there in 1867, about the same time as Gracle Fields.

Today an English Lacrosse Union governs two leagues, the North and South of England Lacrosse Associations, Talking with & O. Peachey, the hon, secretary of the ELU, Fletcher learned there are five divisions of 12 teams each in the

If a Leg Falls Off He Retires

Fletcher found Mr. Peachey peachy and firm on England's attitude to lacrosse.

We play the game under Olympic rules," Peachey told cher, "and I can assure you we have no idea of making any radical changes." That's radical enough but the British don't stop there.

They play lacrosse in winter. Outside.

Whatever they wear and however they play, Douglas' Fletcher wants Canada to have a look, Learning that a representative team from England plans to tour the U.S. in 1966 Fletcher invited them to visit this colony.

The invitation was issued on behalf of the Canadian Lacrosse Association who designated Mons. Fletcher as "Canadian ambassador."

They couldn't have picked a better man.

Fletcher was made a life member of the CLA last year.

In subsequent CLA appointments of knowledgeable and not so knowledgeable boxla dandies, an eastern CLA official looked over the name of one of the "new boys" and said: "Switching Fletcher for him is like swapping a Stradivarius for a

A 56-year-old veteran crane operator today said he would be dead if he had jumped when his large lift rig toppled Monday at Yarrows Shipyards.

Larry Joe, 15 Cooper Street, View Royal, is in satisfactory condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

He received broken ribs, a broken nose and cuts and bruises to his face and legs in a spectacular 50-foot fall.

He was preparing to place a forecastle bulkhead on a 360-foot, self-loading and dumping log barge nearing completion of the varid.

Mr. Joe said he never lost consciousness after his miraculous escape from death.

BROADWAY GRAPEVINE: A soon-due Court of Appeals decision on the validity of Mexican divorces will affect the lives of thousands of New Yorkers. If the Mexican decrees are ruled invalid, countless children will be illegitimate, an untold number of estates will be in chaos, and innumerable happily married couples will be bigamists—therefore, liable to prosecution by the law. It all stems from a recent headlined divorce case . . In the Connie Francis divorce action, Dick Kanellis will pull a switch on the old mother-in-law jokes. He'll claim that interference and pressure from Connie's father ruined their marriage . . . Friends of singer Fran Warren think she will be dissuaded easily from suing the city on charges of false arrest in that recent front-page dope case

* * * Singer Alan Dale has completed his autobiography, "The Spider and the Marionettes," which he boasts he wrote entirely without a ghost. He describes it as "the story of a singer who refused to play the game the way show business would have him play it—a performer who gave up almost everything to go it his own way." The book, scheduled for March publication, was held up for four years because of possible libel problems, but now it apparently has been cleared for release. It names names.

Insiders at the United Nations as well as the White House say our most influential leaders are thoroughly disillusioned about some of the faraway nations we've been helping, and intend to give aid only where it's needed and where the people are friendly. They've just about had it with the pompous diplomats who rap the United States at every opportunity. If this really happens, LBJ may become the most popular president of our time.

Laurence Harvey will drop one of the biggest bomb shells in the London theatrical world by announcing that he plans to quit his starring role in the hit "Camelot." He says he has a get-out clause in his contract and intends to use it . . . Bobert Goulet, scheduled for a booking at the Concord Hotel later in the season, rearranged his com-mitments to play there on Washington's Birthday, the date originally slotted for the alling Nat King Cole . . . Carbon is a chemical element needed by living plants and animals to build the firm framework of their cells. SHOPPING GUIDE

These Do Double Duty In Winter and Summer

By PENNY SAVER

"Achoot" Cold winds, rain, the frosty nip in the air and that last sneeze means Penny has another cold. To lose and to prevent more of those late winter sniffles, she is starting her own "winter warmth program," featuring clothes to repel-cold in winter and to keep cool in spring.

To begin with, sleepwear. I discovered, while browsing through a store, a perfect nightgown to keep you warm and cosy in winter and cool and comfortable in spring and summer. Made of light, washable chaillaire, the garment features a ruffled hemline and cuffs, puffed sleeves and a scooped neckline running to the shoulders.

These come in printed or plain pastel colors and sell for $3.98 and $4.98.

To cover the nightgown, I found a housecoat made of arnel and nylon blend material that looks and feels like the most expensive cashmere. "Warmth without weight" is its When washed, the material holds its shape - won't

The pastel colors of the coat are highlighted by designs of satin. The brushed appearance gives the look of smooth, sleek softness. Price is $19.

Daywear outfits can be warm without excess bulk, too. For example, I found a super-orion sweater to perk up a ward-robe with its softness, color and comfort.

The sweater is washable and one of its best features is that the wool won't pull up and form those horrible little balls on the surface, making the garment look dirty or unkempt.

This versatile garment can be worn in a cardigan or blow style. The plain cut will look wonderful over a printed blouse containing the same tone. Or, why not wear it as a pullover? The ribbed-knit pattern is accent enough for a skirt and sweater ensemble. It is stretch-resistant and comes in a variety of pale pastel colors or brilliant blues and reds. The sweater sells for $8.

Don't let winter colds catch you unprepared. Dress for them. Call Penny at 382-3131.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Sunday mornings would be almost unbearable if it weren't for Bullwinkle and his cartoon crew to fill the time between breakfast and church-going

The moose and his flyingsquirrel friend Bocky have been around TV industry for many years and over that period of time have added millions to their legion of

The half hour is a refreshing period of fun and nonsense with me of the biggest laughs reserved for Dudley Do-Right of the Royal Canadian Mounties.

Cartoons mean big money for the creators. Walt Disney proved this when he brought Mickey Mouse to life those many years ago. Mickey gave Disney the chance to branch out to serious nature study and feature films and, of course, Disneyland. But Disney is a piker in the cartoon production field today when compared to the team of Joe Bar-bera and Bill Hanna. There is hardly a time of day when some youngster is not locked in on a Hanna H and B turn out such products as Huckleberry Hound, Yogi Bear, Touche Turtle, Quick Draw McGraw, Peter Potamus, Ruff & Reddy, Magilla Gorilla.

Wally Gater, Yacky Doodle Duck ad infinitum.

There are at least 13 half-hour series shown around the United States on various channels and different times of the day. Then there are many half-hours beaming on Canadian television stations.

The controls at less count, are seen in 52 count. The cartoons, at last count, are seen in 52 countries and by some 350,000,000 persons.

Add to the production list the stone-age group known as "The Flintstones" who are drawn for night-time adult viewing and the revolutionary animated cartoon series titled "Johnny Quest." This show highlights serious plots and new cartoning techniques which may give rise to new shows of this

Quest cost H and B one-third more than expected but they feel it was more than worth the Three hundred and twenty full-time artists work on the cartoons right now and Hanna-Barbera are also planning to produce their first live feature film, starring real actors.

The only step remaining is to construct a Disney-land-like park. The plans are in the works for it in-corporating the many characters turned out by their cartoon factory.

program shared by millions each Sunday on NBC-TV has finally found its way to CBC-TV. Wild-Kingdom, the best nature study half-hour on television today, will make its debut Sunday, Jan. 17, at 4:30

The show features world-famous naturalist Marlin Perkins and Jim Fowler, a young expert on birds of prey. The pair explain how wild animals and primi-tive people come to grips with their environments in a fight for survival.

The half-hour carries more than its share of exefting adventures in various parts of the world. It has been an award winner for many years and will be more than a welcome addition to Sunday afternoon

Low-Calorie Pop Attracts Big Market

TORONTO (CP)-New prod techniques are giving Canada's $250,000,000-a-year soft drink industry some busy moments.

Introduction on a large scale during 1964 of low-calorie drinks and the use of cans instead of bottles in many stores has resulted in sharp alterations in what had been established buying habits.

The result, says Craig Rice 37-year-old president of Royal Crown Cola Ltd., has been to throw the industry into a tur-

"No one knows for sure what people will be buying in 1965, but the industry has to make its decisions now. The trouble is, no one can afford to make a mistake when he's fighting in a modern sop cated market like we all are competing in today."

Canadians now are consur ing an average of about 160 bottles of soft drinks each year-a total of 3,000,000,000. Taking an increasingly larger share of this market has been the sugarless soft drinks. From about 1 per cent of the market in 1960, the artificially sweetened drinks climbed to an estimated 15 per cent in 1964. Industry estimates have given them about 50 per cent of the market-more than $125,000,000 -by 1970, although some companies now are scaling that esti-mate back slightly. Mr. Rice says consumer tests show more than 90 per cent of the people can't tell the difference between the regular soft drink and the artificially sweetened kind.

"As a result, the industry is attracting consumers it has not had before," he says.

"This is especially true in suburban areas. Many housewives before would never have before woul thought of taking a soft drink when they took a break from their work because they're all watching their weight.

"Now they have a drink they don't have to worry about so they're getting the habit."

Further advances in packaging in the immediate futurealuminium cans, flip-open cans lightweight non-returnable bottles-will mean even greater changes in buying habits, Mr. Rice predicts.

Duncan Orders Sandbag Check

DUNCAN—City council Monday ordered further safeguards against flooding of Cowichan River even though Ald. James Saunders reported "everything under control."

City clerk Gordon Berry was told to ensure sources of sandbags in the event of an emergency.

Aldermen were told the Duncan depot of the provincial highways department had 2,500 in stock: During the January, 1961, city floods 5,000 sandbags were used.

J. D. Somerville, B.C. civil defence co-ordinator, has informed the council sandbags will be available from various sources, including the army. Ted Bolin, local civil defence chief, said his department is ready to meet any flood situation.

Ald. Saunders said the river was staying in its channel and the run-off from the snow was slow.

"There's not much we can do about it."

This was Mayor Jack Dobson's reaction to news that council's share of the cost of social welfare is going up from 27 to 29 cents per capita a month.

The mayor said Duncan welfare officials had assured him every effort was made to keep costs down by tracing the husbands of deserted wives.

Duncan and North Cowichan council members and officials meet today with Ottawa officials of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

At independent sessions the two councils were to discust federal aid available for urban renewal.

Mayor Dobson said the discussions are a follow-up to the symposium held in Vancouver at the weekend. The city will seek federal assistance in development of the projected civic centre adjoining the new provincial courthouse.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association said today the Canada Pension Plan is inherently unstable. Instead of implementing the plan, said the association in a brief to the joint Senate-Commons committee on the Canada Pension Plan, the government should extend the old age security program by lowering the qualifying age and increasing benefits.

The association is formed by 102 Canadian, United States British and other European companies who have in force 99 per cent of the life insurance business in Canada. The pen ion plans administered by nember companies cover about ne-quarter of the Canadians in all private plans.

A lengthy brief from the as-sociation fires one criticism after another at the pension plan the government hopes to pass through Parliament later this year.

Among the criticisms

• The plan would provide nothing for today's aged. Canadians not employed and those with low earnings would Benefits would rise with earnings and thus provide the most for those least in need. • It would provide the largst bonuses to those with the highest pensionable earnings The plan would push costs forward from one generation to another. Its structure is compli-ated and would be bound to become unstable.

Pressures to use the fund to fill gaps in the plan's coverage would certainly de-velop, and if they succeeded the fund would have to be rescued by a tax increase.

Wherever mountains rise, slides occur. In our Coast Range, their tracks are plain from miles away; savage scars gouged from timberline to creek-bottom. Even at the height of summer, there are spots where rock-fire is a con-

But such falls are mere small-talk of the hostile mountains, of consequence only to the climber who regards them as a hazard of his sport. The great slides are far otherwise. Compared to the avalanche that topples a few-trees and leaves a rock-cone where lilies will root and marmots burrow, these are as ele-phants to a beetle.

Duncan Orders Sandbag Check

DUNCAN—City council Monday ordered further safeguards against flooding of Cowichan River even though Ald. James Saunders reported "everything under control."

City clerk Gordon Berry was told to ensure sources of sandbags in the event of an emergency.

Aldermen were told the Duncan depot of the provincial highways department had 2,500 in stock. During the January, 1961, city floods 5,000 sandbags were used.

J. D. Somerville, E.C. civil defence co-ordinator, has informed the council sandbags will be available from various sources, including the army.

Ted Bolin, local civil defence chief, said his department is ready to meet any flood situation.

Ald. Saunders said the river was staying in its channel and the run-off from the snow was slow.

A Bigger City Council

and expanding responsibilities of city government are indicated clearly in Mayor Wilson's inaugural address suggestion that the City Council be enlarged.

Specifically if Victoria is to take part in the administration of joint services-along the lines proposed by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell-more aldermen will be required. Existing duties in the city are heavy enough for the mayor and the present eight council members. The assumption of new obligations would overtax their energies and time.

If Victoria and the other municipalities are to proceed further with the joint services policy, each council must be prepared to devote continuing serious study and hard thought to the details of such an arrangement.

Two references in the mayor's inaugural address underscore that point. Greater Victoria is already involved in joint services in some fields, Library service is one. Yet the mayor notes that "a solution is urgently required" to the problem of meeting library needs in the community in such a way that adequate representation is provided for those who enjoy the service. "I hope," he adds, "that during 1965, through discussions with our neighbors we may be able to find an acceptable solution."

Again, in the operation of the number of inherent problems have additions will have to be made.

As in the case of the library, the health board problems can be largely met when its members reach a satisfactory agreement on the apportionment of costs.

In like manner, as the prospective members of the joint services board proceed from approval in principle of the plan to the actualities of carrying it out, the development of an equitable financing formula will become imperative.

That will be a time-consuming operation demanding a high degree of ability, understanding and cooperation on the part of representatives concerned.

This no doubt was in the mayor's mind as he discussed additional members for the city council-

NEW CHAPTER IN GOVERNMENT

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Ingredients of the Benign Revolution

THE Great Society, as President Lyndon Johnson is using the words, is much more than a mere collection of necessary or desirable programs making life more livable in the United States. It is an attempt to open a new chapter in the annals of popular government

Compressed into one sentence, the ba-sic idea is that an affluent society like the American can be governed by consensus. this means. An affluent society is not simply a rich society: it which has mastered the new art of con-trolling and stimulating its own eco-mic growth.

To be sure, we are as yet only students and apprentices in the art. We have not yet fully mastered it. But we have a sufficiently promising start to justify our thinking that we have seen a breakthrough-that we are escaping from the immemorial human predica-ment of the haves and the have-nots. This predicament has been based on to be divided is fixed and that, thereif some have more others must

Old Concept

The assumption that this predicament exists has been the central idea of social-ism and communism. However, it has also been the tacit assumption of recent reformist and welfare programs. can see this in slogans like "the New and "the Fair Deal." Both imply that there is always the same pack to be the years between the two world wars But only recently, not until President John Kennedy's proposal of a tax cut as part of a planned deficit, have the modern economists in the government service and in the great financial institutions been taken quite seriously,

The scientific breakthrough in mod-

I will not say that they have moved into the driver's seat. But certainly they are in the seat next to the driver's, reading the signs and following the maps for him. The result of this change is a benign revolution which makes it possible that the costs of improving scho and colleges, of reducing poverty, of re building slums can be covered by cal-culated increases in the national output of wealth.

Practical

I realize that there are some who will dismiss all this as dangerous moonshine. I can remember a time when w stood on the sidewalk and jeered at passing automobiles, telling the driver to get a horse. But now the practical evidence of what can be done is coming in, and it is accepted increasingly by the business community and by organized

This is the concrete foundation of the special and unusual Johnson political style. It. a modern coolety like oursneed no longer think of itself as irreconcilably divided over the distribution of wealth, it has become humanly possible to govern by obtaining wide agreement among the voters. It is a fortunate coincidence that Lyndon Johnson happens to be a man who has long practised the art of healing conflicts. But he would not be able to make this skill the governing philosophy of an administration if the evolution of a modern economic society did not give him the op-

seeking a consensus, he is not saying that he expects everyone to vote for him and to agree with him. But he is saying that the great internal problems cannot be solved successfully and satisfactorily until and unless they have the support of a very big majority.

In the American political tradition, a very big majority is taken to lie between 60% and 75%. That is what is required to amend the Constitution and to ratify That is what is required treaties. An American consensus is more than a bare 51% majority; it is a majority between three-fifths and three-

Lyndon Johnson was elected by such s consensus, and his intention is to conserve the consensus if he can. It is not only that; as everyone else he likes to be liked. It is because he has realized from his large practical experience that our really difficult and important internal problems cannot be solved in any other way.

Obsolete

The American race problem is the outstanding example. Unless there is a wide and growing willingness to observe civil rights laws, enforcement alone will be a long and bloody battle. The same principle applies to relations between capital and labor; only because the Marxist idea of class struggle has been rendered obsolete in a modern economy is it possible and therefore necessary to agreements which are mutually

The Johnson conception of the Great Society rests on the two pillars of controlled affluence and of political consensus. If the conception were to fail, it would not be because the conception is false. It would be because of some ex-ternal cause—possibly because we had become diverted by some entanglement

Humane Discrimination in U.S. Schools

Replacing Home

Logically and practically it should be just the other way around. In the deprived neighborhood the home cannot customary job because of physical conditions of life and emerging social patterns of "The Other America." Hence, the school in such neighborhoods must go quite far to replace the home; and for this very reason, schools in deprived neighborhoods must be much better staffed and equipped than the average.

Such schools, in sum, need extra help because they have a bigger job to do. The job is not purely educational. It is social. It is the job of giving hope to the hopeless by opening doors of escape from "The Other America." And the president is dead right to want to give these schools the extra help they need. Oak Bay Assessment

One of the great benefits we enjoy are the newspapers with vigilant editors who are watchful of encroachment by bureaucracy on the right of ownership and peaceful possession as exemplified under the editorial page of the Times, January 7, headed Forcing Owners Out?

I have in mind a property on the waterfront in Oak Bay, and there are others in similar circumstances. This small house has been in possession of the owners for 40 years, now retired and in the fixed income group, fully intending to spend their remaining years there.
The assessor has increased the value of this lot by over three times his 1960 valuation. How this increase was arrived at has not been explained, as there has been no sale of property for residence in the 2300 and 2400 block in

It does not make sense for the reeve to claim he is powerless to alter this condition, for it should not be beyond his and the assessor's comprehension to fol-low municipal practise in taking the matter up with the Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs to recommend a change in the Equalization Assessment Act to the Cabinet to avoid injury that was unfortunate at time of drafting.

I believe a commonsense attitude towards this assessment is to tax a wealthy purchaser on the value he paid for a waterfront lot, and not penalize all adjoining owners for another's act.

In fact there is good reason to believe that eliminating the financial element at time of receiving service does have a salutary effect on the patient and on the doctor-patient relationship.."

(2) "The notion held by some that the physician has an absolute right to fix his fees as he sees fit unrelated to the mores of our times is incorrect.." "The state automatically becomes in-volved whenever it grants a monopoly to an exclusive group to render an in-dispensable service." "This involvement exists now. Daring Nonsense

So your art critic, January 9, thinks I'm a coward because I do not hang on my walls the meaningless daubs he has the audacity to dignify as art. Fellow critics have loudly praised daubs by monkeys, by artists exhibiting the re-sult of merely wiping their brushes, and by little children. However, like most of his kind, he

While I fully agree with this statement, I note no mention was made of the hardship to pensioners re the in-creased fares. I have talked to many people who are now walking instead of riding the buses and they tell me that they will have to curtail their activities because they cannot afford to pay this increase in fares and they are not going to make trips to the city unless abso lutely necessary. So although the B.C. Hydro has increased fares it seems that it is going to lose revenue, I know of an elderly and very lame lady who travels two blocks to go to church; if she pays cash it's 40 cents return. DON H. Affluence not only makes poverty more cruel by sheer force of contrast. It also makes poverty much harder to escape from because of the increasing divergence in social patterns, outlook and habits between the 10 per cent who are really poor and the 90 per cent who are much, much better off.

In the urban and rural ghettoes and slums, therefore, a kind of outcast society has developed. Harrington called "The Other America" for good reason ecause it is quite different from normal American society. And this outcast society is being perpetuated—it is even being made quasi-hereditary—because the children of this "Other America" are not being equipped, either by experience or by education, to escape from their outcast condition into the normal current of American life.

Declining 1Qs

Such are the grim facts, amply docu-Such are the grim tacts, amply docu-mented by sheaves of newly gathered statistics. Among these statistics, some that the biologists and sociologists have collected are of special interest. Studies made in New York, for instance, have revealed that the IQs of Negro children from the worst slum areas actually de quite perceptibly after they enter

Other studies have disclosed hitherto unsuspected effects of the common conditions of slum life, such as broken homes, children with none to care for them but working mothers and very young untended children either locked apartments like little animals or streets. Six and seven-year-olds with this kind of early conditoning come to school deficient vocabularies, hardly

All these rather recent discoveries must be borne in mind if one is to under-stand the chief peculiarity of the kind of school aid the president wants to give. Its chief peculiarity is that it is discriminatory. If the plan works as intended, the $800 million of federal aid will only go to schools in deprived neighborhoods. None will be given to schools in neighborhoods in the lowermiddle-to-prosperous range.

Help for Depressed

There may be arguments about the technical devices adopted to achieve this kind of discrimination, such as making federal payments to a school district proportional to the number of really low-$2,000 a year per family—as revealed by the census. But there should be no argument about the basic principle of dis-crimination in favor of schools in the

SPCA WORKING ON SCHEME

MSA' For Pets... Why Not?

If medical insurance is good enough for humans, why not pass on its benefits to domestic pets, says David Beeching, secretary-manager of Victoria SPCA. The pet's owner would pay premiums for protection against costs of veterinarian services.

The policy would cover only domestic pets, not animals used comercially of wild animals tamed and kept as services.
"The veterinary insurance stages and if enough members want it, a policy could be drawn up," Mr. Beeching

"It would work just like MSA," he said.
